

CASE STUDY — CASUAL VOLUNTEER

River Stewardship Company Case Studies

June 2018

Who: Jim Heaton

When: October 2017—July 2018

Jim joined the weekly volunteer days after he completed his BSc in Geography. He has been a very reliable and hard working volunteer, but had to leave us to embark on his MSc in Environmental Impact Assessment and Management at Manchester University.

He hopes to go into a career in Environmental Consultancy

“Its good to contribute to the community. After working for a session you can look back and see what a difference we’ve made”

- Jim

Tasks:

- Footpath maintenance
- Fence painting
- Building foxholes
- Dead hedging to mark out areas for fishermen
- Himalayan Balsam pulling
- Clearing small trees from the river banks
- And of course, removing litter and debris from the river
