Introduction

The Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, is calling on young Londoners to lead the way in celebrating our city's waterways, from rivers to canals and wetlands, and showcasing a vision of what clean and healthy waterways look like. The Mayor is looking for designs which imagine a future where all Londoners can connect with water and nature, and enjoy the benefits this brings. He is now inviting London's primary school age children, aged 4 to 11, to submit designs, with the chance to have them decorate eight new benches, helping more Londoners enjoy waterside locations across the city.

Groundwork London is commissioned to lead on the promotion and administration of the challenge.

1. Join the challenge

To join the challenge, your school, home school or play scheme should:

1. Nominate an adult lead
The adult lead will champion the challenge in school, home school or play scheme, plan how children take part and be responsible for submitting their entries on time.
2. Encourage children to take part
You could announce the challenge in a school assembly, make it a homework assignment, or add it to a lesson plan as an activity.
3. Submit your entries You will need to be able to upload a clear photo or scanned image of the design to submit with your application.
We need all entries by midnight, Sunday 28th June. All entries should be submitted through our online form. <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/GLCNMQ7>
4. After submitting entries, the adult lead is required to retain the original artwork. Winning entries will be contacted and required to provide the original designs before the schools break up for the Summer Holidays. The winners will be required to provide the original artwork to the Groundwork London Team by 10th July 2026.

2. What do your children need to do?

All designs:

- Should be created on white A4 or A3 paper using the template found below and as a downloadable template. <https://www.groundwork.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2026/06/Clean-Healthy-Waterways-Template-1.pdf>
- Must be in colour and hand drawn – coloured pencils, paint, and felt tip pens are all examples of materials that can be used.

- Pupils must not stick additional material (such as tinsel, glitter, buttons or sequins) onto the entry.
- Have a strong, clear message in response to the theme of clean and healthy waterways.
- Must be uploaded as a JPEG or PNG (File size should be 20MB maximum).

3. Theme Brief for Children

This year, we're inviting responses to the theme of 'River of Life'.

We're all Londoners, because we live in London. London is a city built on a big river called the Thames, that cuts it into two parts – as well as loads of other smaller rivers, canals (rivers made by humans) and wetlands (places where the ground is full of water). Londoners need rivers to keep them healthy, and connect them to the plants and animals that are all around us. Rivers are an essential part of life.

Lots of different plants and animals live in, on or next to rivers, canals and waterways. People also live in, on or next to a river – they swim (where it is safe), travel on boats and walk alongside it. For too long, our waterways haven't been taken care of. But we want to bring back more wildlife and animals – including more beavers like those who live in Ealing and Enfield.

People sometimes talk about "the river of life" because sometimes a river reminds us of our lives. Just like rivers, sometimes our lives have twists and turns, sometimes our lives are calm and sometimes they are not. When we look at these rivers, canals and wetlands we can feel connected to everyone in London, and remember that everyone is living the same wonderful, difficult, fascinating life.

We're inviting children to create designs inspired by:

- life in, on or beside London's waterways
- wildlife and plants that live in rivers, canals and wetlands
- memories or experiences near water
- hopes for cleaner, greener waterways in the future
